features of the future parkland while ensuring that the enjoyment and wellbeing of visitors and stakeholders is promoted.”

The CP “vision statement” is not really a Vision Statement, but once again emphasises recreation: the Hillary Trail, walks, and interpretation.

There is nothing in the objective or vision statement about the environment or the need to “protect and enhance” the natural values and wilderness qualities of the site.

Similarly, the first two first “design principles” of the CP are:

1. Manage and maintain recreational opportunities for the enjoyment and well-being of the local community, iwi, and visitors.
2. The site is well-connected and accessible.

The WRLB believes this overall approach of the CP makes a number of errors:

1. The first step should have been to develop policy for the new land and integrate this into the RPMP. This would have ensured that the approach at The Gap was consistent with the RPMP policies for WRRP and with the WRHA Act.
2. It would have enabled a fully participatory process for stakeholders and the public, enabling them to present at a hearing and discuss their concerns and recommendations. The current approach does not enable this active participation, being at arm’s length from the decision-makers
3. By starting “de novo”, without recognising the existing statutory policy framework, the policy approach is distorted, prioritising recreation and downgrading environmental restoration and enhancement.

The WRLB believes the Governing Body should take a step back and develop the policy framework for The Gap before proceeding further. This would enable it to be determined whether it should be given the status of a Special Management Zone which would define:

“...the important features of the locality, including any special or sensitive features to be protected, the desired quality of experience for visitors, and a series of policies that will ensure the location can cope with the defined level of activity.” (page 388)

This would also integrate the new parkland into the RPMP and make it subject to all the policies of the RPMP. It would also enable an assessment of the likely visitation to The Gap and how this will be managed, especially on constrained and fragile parts of the site, such as the Blowhole and “Tennis Courts”.

It is also important to recognise that the adjoining land – Taitomo Island – is the only land in the ownership of Te Kawerau-a-Maki on the West Coast.² As far as the public is concerned, this land is treated as art of the parkland. It is important to spell out how this relationship is to be recognised in
